- Crafting communication content during crisis situations.

Communicating as One

- UNHQ sets strategic communications policy and guidance.
- Mission HQ provides direction and support to all components.
- Military and police component communications support the implementation of the mission's communications strategy.

A Narrative-led Approach

- A Mission's communications strategy narrative explains and reinforces the objectives of the mission to diverse audiences.
- The narrative must be communicated to various audiences through consistent actions, images and words.
- All military and police communications should be framed in the context of the Mission narrative.

The Mission's Communications Strategy

Mission Communications Strategy

A: Purpose

Through a proactive, interactive, and disciplined approach to communication, this strategy seeks to help secure the political and public support required for the effective and safe withdrawal and drawdown of MINUSMA, secure the legacy of the UN's work in Mali through the promotion of partnerships with the authorities and people of Mali as well as the United Nations Country Team, and demonstrate the tangible impact of the mission's decade-long commitment to the communities it served.

B: Background

Ten years after its deployment, the United Nations Security Council, in Resolution 2690 (2023), terminated the mandate of the United Nations Multidimensional Integrated Stabilization Mission in Mali (MINUSMA) and requested the Mission to proceed with the "orderly and safe" drawdown and withdrawal of 13,289 military personnel, 1,920 police officers and around 2,000 civilian staff, "in close consultation with the Transition Government of Mali and in coordination with the troop and police contributing countries". The adoption of this resolution followed the request for withdrawal "without delay" by the transitional authorities on 16 June 2023 at a Security Council meeting on Mali, where they also expressed a willingness to cooperate with the UN to this end. In the resolution, the Security Council authorized MINUSMA to maintain effective strategic communication to enhance its protection throughout the withdrawal process.

C: Objectives

- (a) Manage expectations and foster support by strengthening understanding of the reasons for the Mission's withdrawal, the process, and the transfer of responsibilities and tasks to other stakeholders, including transitional authorities and the UN Country Team.
- (b) Demonstrate the value and tangible impact of the mission's decade-long deployment to Mali through compelling, human-focused storytelling featuring the voices of peacekeepers and testimony from authorities, communities and other stakeholders.
- (c) Anticipate risks, including reputational, through regular monitoring, analysis, and rapid responses to mis-information and active engagement with stakeholders.

D: Communications Approach

In line with the requirements of SCR 2690 (2023), it is incumbent on the Mission to ensure strategic communication capacity is sustained throughout the withdrawal process to enable a proactive approach that effectively manages expectations, anticipates risks and milestone moments, ensures timely, accurate, and transparent engagement with transitional authorities, communities, and other stakeholders, coordinates messaging across the whole of Mission, and works with partners to prevent and address misinformation and disinformation. To mitigate these risks, MINUSMA must communicate thoroughly and timely on the withdrawal process and its achievements/legacy. This will promote transparency and accountability, facilitate the withdrawal and liquidation, and preserve the working relationship between the United Nations, the transitional government, and the general population. MINUSMA must also take robust action to clarify and correct any false allegations, and to counter mis/disinformation campaigns. This will help to protect the safety and security of remaining personnel, and to ensure that the withdrawal is carried out in a safe and orderly manner.
